

DIANA SENSATION

Absolutely not. Amateur night is Mondays.

DISARRAY

I understand the point of having the amateur night on a night that's not really busy, however it only really benefits the bar. And only barely. The audiences are little to nonexistent.

DIANA SENSATION

Here we go. You need to bring your friends to cheer you on. Find friends.

DISARRAY

But then the winner isn't determined by talent, but who has the biggest group. Regardless on if friends show up, if they don't buy drinks or tip then everyone working is miserable.

DIANA SENSATION

Then get your friends to buy drinks and tip.

DISARRAY

But isn't the whole point of the night to uplift and encourage newer performers? The way you put it makes it seem like its all about the money.

DIANA SENSATION

This is a business. It is about money.

DISARRAY

Why is an artist's worth based so heavily on what they can do for the financial gain of the establishment?

DIANA SENSATION

That's just how it is!

DISARRAY

Then how do you explain your shows?

~~CLAIRE VIEW~~

~~Oh shit.~~

DIANA SENSATION

What about my shows?

DISARRAY

If this business is all about your worth as it relates to the establishment's income, then how do you explain your decreasing audiences?

DIANA SENSATION

My audiences are just fine.

DISARRAY

If that were true, none of us would need to be here right now to try and impress those people into giving us money. When I started you were packing them in. Now your act has grown stale and isn't measuring up and your audience is going elsewhere. The dumbest decision this bar ever did was not firing you.

DIANA SENSATION

You don't know what you're talking about. Its called loyalty. I've been performing at this bar longer than you've been around. They would never fire me.

DISARRAY

Like I said: dumbest thing they've done.

DIANA SENSATION

You don't even have a show.

DISARRAY

I'd rather not have a show and keep some artistic integrity than become one note and cease growing.

~~CLAIRE VIEW~~

~~How about we put a pin in this discussion for after this weekend, yeah?~~

~~LADY OLIVIA MONROE~~

~~Oh no, this is just getting good.~~

DIANA SENSATION

You cannot sit here and complain to me about artistic integrity when you were just living for my performance -

DISARRAY

You're a terrific performer. But you hit the ceiling and haven't gone any further up. I love watching you perform, but if you've seen one of your numbers, you've seen them all.

DIANA SENSATION

You can go to hell.

~~CLAIRE VIEW~~

~~Let's get back to Nick.~~
